1776:
A Reading and Discussion Series

Join us in a multipart discussion of David McCullough's book 1776, which focuses on a pivotal year in American history. Explore how historians as well as ordinary Americans come to understand events in our nation's past. Participants (high school and older) can attend one or all events.

Multiple copies of the illustrated edition of 1776, which include a portfolio of facsimile letters, maps and artwork, are available for checkout.

February 7 at 4 pm

Picturing History: How portraits help us understand history.

March 7 at 4 pm

Mapping History: Reading maps to understand the past.

The series continues in March and April with two additional discussions and a Music in the Stacks event. For details, ask for a flyer at the library or visit the library's website

1776: A Reading and Discussion Series is made possible by grants from the Clackamas County Cultural Coalition and the Oregon Cultural Trust, and the Friends of the Canby Public Library.
